

Management of Complicated Cases in Endodontics

Endodontics is a mandatory treatment for teeth which are indicated for root canal therapy, starting with good access cavity to achieve good instrumentation and good chemical irrigation preparing for the late obturation.

Unfortunately, we may face some problems in this procedure, one of the most important problems is separation.

In this lecture i will illustrate some of broken instruments problems and the possible ways to solve.